Washington, March 23.—Two broadsides from the battleship New Hampshire were all that was necessary to put the old battleship San Marcos, formerly the Texas, of Spanish War fame, out of commission. Had the San Marcos been an enemy a battle probably would have been ended almost before it was begun, so accurate was the aim of the gunners of the New Hampshire in directing their fire against the ship in Chesapeake Bay this week. This is the censencus of opinion of the naval and ordnance officers who returned to ordnance officers who returned to Washington to-day. These first two broadsides, fired by

Action on Stripling's Petition for Pardon May Be Delayed.

Atlanta, Ga., March 23.—The original court record in the case of Thomas Edgar Stripling, whose petition for pardon is pending following his recapture at Danville, Va., after fourteen years' freedom, is missing, and until it can be found neither the prison commission nor dovernor Brown is disposed to pass finally upon the matter. Stripling was convicted of murder in Harris county and sentenced to life imprisonment. He escaped before being transferred to the State prison, and his escape, so far as the courts were concerned, closed the case. It is believed the full records were sent back to Harris county for preservation, and that they have been misplaced there or lost.

The surgeon-general is charged with refusing to permit the Tennyson to place two smallpox patients from the ship's steerage in quarantine at Portau-Spain, His answer, the passengers assert, was that there was bubonic plague in the city, and that the authorities did not want the added danger of smallpox.
